He got the memo

Millennium Momentum Foundation Inc. (MMF) founder and CEO Jason L. Seward, second from right, signs a memorandum of understanding with Pepperdine University, USC, and California State University, Dominguez Hills (CSUDH) at the organization's recent summer benefit reception, which will provide students with leadership skills training, major scholarship opportunities, college admissions support, and other resources to pursue public policy education.
